PREFACE

CLASSMATES :—The following report I hope may serve as a strengthening link in the chain of associations which binds the Class of '72 together. The circular sent to you for its preparation contained the record printed in the last report, published four years ago, and called for such corrections as were needed. Many of the replies have contained such corrections, and nothing more. As the present report is intended, as announced in the circular, to contain only the events of our lives in the last four years, the corrections have been made in the class records, and additions only are given in the following pages, except in a few instances. This report, therefore, is naturally short, as most of us have reached a settled period, when, however strenuous our lives may be, the incidents and changes are few. I cannot forbear expressing my regret that this thirtieth anniversary finds so many too feeble to reply at all, and admire the modesty which has undoubtedly controlled many in replying "Nothing worth mentioning."

It will be seen that only one child has been added to our descendants, Charles Greene Fessenden, while no grandchildren are reported.

Our death rate has increased alarmingly, and in these short four years we have been called upon to mourn the loss of seven of our number :—Brickett, George Fiske, A. W. Gould, Hulme, E. B. Russell, Sullivan and Sinclair.

Our bachelors are growing beautifully less, and I find that eighty-three per cent. of the graduated members have been married.

The Class Fund, as may be seen from the report further on, has shared in the general prosperity and has thus far been equal to all the demands which our generous commissary, E. C. Sherburne, has made upon it.

I wish to acknowledge here my indebtedness to Wyman for his valuable assistance in publishing this report, and heartily to thank the many who have been so prompt in replying to my demands.

Please keep me informed of any changes; let me know of any errors which you undoubtedly will find in the following pages, and send me any news which you learn of one another.

Homo sum; humani nil a me alienum puto.

If I can be of any assistance to you, kindly let me know; health and prosperity to you all.

Yours truly,

A. L. LINCOLN, JR.,
Secretary.

RECORD OF THE CLASS

1898—1902

CHARLES ALMY

He has continued the practice of law in Boston, and is Justice of the Third District Court of Eastern Middlesex. He writes "No additions and no subtractions, I am glad to say. All O. K. up to date". He resides at 147 Brattle street, Cambridge.

* NICOLA ALTROCCHI

He died at Florence, Italy, Oct. 26, 1894. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

GEORGE FRANKLIN BABBITT

In 1900 he retired from his position as one of the Health Commissioners of the city of Boston, after a service of 21 years. He is still on the editorial staff of the Boston Herald, with which paper he is connected as an editorial and paragraph writer. For several years he has made annual trips abroad for pleasure and recreation. He resides at 10 Charles street, Boston.

CHARLES FRANCIS BAKER

He has continued the practice of law in Fitchburg, Mass., and for the past four years has been associated with Walter Perley Hall as senior member of the firm of Baker & Hall. He is a director in the Fitchburg & Leominster Street Railway Company, of the Rollstone National Bank, and trustee in the Worcester North Savings Institution. His son, Emerson Woods Baker, is a member of the class of 1904, Harvard.

HARVARD '72, EIGHTH REPORT

* CECIL BARNES

He died in Portland, Me., March 19, 1880. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

GEORGE SCHUYLER BATES

He writes "There is nothing new with me ; I am still in the same place and the past four years have brought no changes." He is editor of the San Diego, California, Daily Union.

WILLIAM STACY BEAMAN

"So far as it relates to me that 1898 report will answer for 1902, because during the past four years I have neither received any degree, held any office, published any book or article, or been married, although I have aided some other people in each of those various matters — more or less. If a summer trip in England, Scotland and Ireland is what you mean by foreign travel, I had a little of it in 1899, but if anyone wishes to travel among foreigners let him come here to New York and I will put him down where there are plenty of them. If you keep a record of our home address, I am about to change mine to 18 E. 10th street."

PERRY BELMONT

He was appointed Inspector General of the United States Army, with rank of Major, July 2, 1898, and served until peace with Spain was declared. Was elected a member of the New York Democratic State Committee, Sept. 28, 1898. He refused the nomination to Congress, First Congressional District, New York, Oct. 5, 1898. Was elected president of the Democratic Club, New York, Dec. 5, 1898. He was a delegate from New York State to the Democratic National Convention at Kansas City, July, 1900. Was nominated for Congress by acclamation, First Congressional District, New York, Oct. 2, 1900, and refused the nomination. Was nominated for Congress Dec. 21, 1901, Seventh Congressional District, New York, to fill vacancy caused by the resignation of the Hon. Nicholas Muller, and was defeated by 394 votes.

HARVARD '72, EIGHTH REPORT

He has written and published the following articles:—
“The Peace Commission’s Work,”—New York Times, Nov. 2, 1898; “The Vexing Debt Question,”—New York Times, Nov. 6, 1898; “Territorial Expansion,”—New York Herald, Jan. 13, 1899; “Congress, the President and the Philippines,”—North American Review, December, 1899; “The President’s War Power and the Tariff,”—North American Review, March, 1900; “The Constitution and the Presidential Campaign,”—New York Times, April 8, 1900; “Coinage and Legal Tender,”—New York Evening Post, Nov. 20, 1900; “Existing Currency Conditions,”—Published in representative newspapers, December, 1900; “Republic or Empire,”—Pamphlet published by the New York Democratic State Committee, 1900; “Plight of the Democratic Party,”—North American Review, February, 1901; “Subsidy and Silver,”—New York Evening Post, Feb. 9, 1901, and “Politics and History,”—Philadelphia Record, March 30, 1901.

He was married April 27, 1899, to Jessie Robbins Sloane.

ARTHUR SMITH BIRD

He has continued to reside in New York, engaged in the practice of medicine.

* CHARLES ROBERTS BRICKETT

He was born in Haverhill, on the 12th of December, 1851, and was the son of Franklin Brickett, shoe merchant, and of Mehitable Dow Bradlee. He was fitted for college at Phillips Exeter Academy. During his freshman year he roomed with John C. Avery, and in his junior year with William P. Frost, Jr. After graduation he taught school for about a year at Augusta, Ky., where he became acquainted with the champion banjoist of Kentucky, and spent his leisure hours in studying with him and in indulging a taste which he had shown while in college for that class of music. He studied law in the office of Benjamin F. Brickett, and was admitted to the Massachusetts bar, Jan. 11, 1875, at Salem. After practising for a short time he again took up teaching in October, 1875, at Plaistow, N. H., at South Berwick, Me., and at North Andover, Mass., but his ruling passion for the banjo soon overcame him and in May, 1877, he began his career with various travelling troupes of minstrels, bell-ringers and combinations of that sort, a full list of which is given in our last report. He appeared under the name of Charles Brickwood, the Banjo King, and published a book called "Charles Brickwood's Great Banjo Songster." He several times wrote that he was about to retire from the stage, but he never did so, and his engagements were such that he had not joined in any of our re-unions for many years, although always expressing a wish that he could do so. He died at Haverhill, Mass., Oct. 22, 1900.

JOHN COTTON BROOKS

He has continued as Rector of Christ Church, Springfield, Mass.

* HORACE BROWN

He died at West Newbury, Mass., July 5, 1883. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

JOHN FREEMAN BROWN

He was appointed Chief Justice of the Boston Municipal Court by Governor Crane, Jan. 29, 1902, upon the resignation of Chief Justice William E. Parmenter.

ARTHUR BURGESS

Not heard from.

WALTER BURGESS

Is in the real estate business at 15 Exchange street, Boston. He resides in Brookline.

ARTHUR TRACY CABOT

He has continued the practice of medicine at 1 Marlborough street. In addition to the other societies of which he is a member, enumerated in the last report, he is a trustee of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, a member of the Boston Society of Natural History and of the American Medical Association. He travelled abroad in 1900.

EDWARD BELCHER CALLENDER

He has continued the practice of law in Boston. He was re-elected to the Massachusetts General Court from the Dorchester district, Boston, for 1901 and for 1902. In 1900 he published a political novel entitled the "Gigantic Meddler."

WILLIAM WITHINGTON CARTER

He is in the real estate business at 323 West 63d street, Chicago, Ill.

CHARLES WELLS CHASE

No reply. In June, 1898, he wrote that he was about to become connected with Self Culture, a magazine published in Akron, Ohio. Subsequently he took up again the practice of law in Chicago, with an office in the Chicago Title and Trust Company Building, 100 Washington street.

ALBERT WHEELWRIGHT COBB

“There is nothing new or startling in my life since your last report, except that about four years ago I bought out the Wilbur interest in the H. O. Wilbur Co., and changed the name to ‘Cobb Chocolate Co., Manufacturers of Cocoa and Chocolate.’ My two eldest sons after getting through Harvard came in here and are now associated with me in this business.”

JOHN SERGEANT CRAM

No reply. He is one of the Commissioners of Docks in New York. He was married Sept. 2, 1898, in New York, to Beatrice Budd Cleland.

OTIS HENRY CURRIER

No reply. He has continued in the fruit and produce commission business, with Lowell Brothers and Bailey, at 75 Clinton street, Boston.

 AMMI CUTTER

He died at Buffalo, Dec. 30, 1885. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

EDEN REEDER DONOHUE

He has continued to reside in Cincinnati, Ohio, engaged in the practice of law, with an office at 77 Blymyer Building. His home is at 2117 Auburn avenue.

WILLIAM HENRY ELLIOT

“I know of no changes or additions to be made under my name in the Class Report. Four years have passed and my address is still the same. I suppose you prefer a statement that I have nothing to say, to absolute silence.”

HARVARD '72, EIGHTH REPORT

* WILLIAM EVARTS

He died at Washington, April 26, 1878. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

CORNELIUS CONWAY FELTON

No reply. He was present at our dinner last year for the second time only since graduation, and I understand has returned to his ranch in Montecito, near Santa Barbara, California.

CHARLES NEWTON FESSENDEN

"I add one item to the old report, don't leave the little fellow out. A son, Charles Greene Fessenden was born Aug. 31, 1899. My residence is now 24 St. James Place, Chicago." He has continued in his position as assistant secretary of the Chicago Board of Education.

* ALFRED WITHINGTON FIELD

He died in Leominster, Mass., July 29, 1882. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

HENRY MIDDLETON FISHER

"There is nothing further to note in the Class Report, except that I have resigned the treasurership of the College of Physicians, after five years' service, and my position as attending physician to the Episcopal Hospital, after nineteen years' service, and I have a large, but regret to say not a very lucrative practice, generally among poor Italians and Russian Jews." His office is at 1027 Pine street, and his residence at 1020 Clinton street, Philadelphia.

* GEORGE FISKE

He was born in Boston, Dec. 28, 1851, and died of pneumonia at Concord, Mass., March 5, 1902, after a very short illness. He was educated in the private schools of Boston, and he notes in his class biography that he was never absent while in college. His father was the eminent Boston lawyer of the last generation, Augustus Henry Fiske, and his mother, Hannah Rogers Bradford Fiske, was the seventh in direct descent from the pilgrim Governor, William Bradford. He left college with the intention of studying medicine, and for that purpose he entered Guy's hospital. He gave up this intention, however, and was never in active business life. He was fond of out-door life, and this inclination led him to travel much in foreign countries. He was a member of the Monumental Brass Society of London, England, and made a large collection of specimens of the calchotriptic art, which was exhibited at the rooms of Trinity Church in the winter of 1898, for the benefit of some charity. He was enthusiastic in his work of collecting these rubbings from monumental brasses in England, and was considered an authority on these matters. He published some articles on the subject in The Churchman, New York. He was a member of the corporation of the parish of St. George's Church, Maynard, Mass., to the establishment of which he had given much of his time and means, and it was largely due to him that a church was erected in Maynard for the benefit of the English operatives in the mills there. Of a quiet and retiring nature, he was always generous and considerate in his relations with his classmates, but an infrequent visitor at our class re-unions. As he roomed alone outside of the college grounds during most of the four years at Cambridge, he made but few intimate acquaintances in the class. He was married Dec. 13, 1888, at Lynn, to Mary E. Rood, daughter of Stephen Bamford and Mary A. Rood, who survives him. He left no children.

THOMAS FRENCH

“ In March, 1900, I resigned the professorship of Physics at the University of Cincinnati. During the following year travelled in Colorado, Alaska, British Columbia, California and Arizona in pursuit of mining interests and duties. Was manager of mining properties in Arizona in 1901. In October of that year I moved to Ann Arbor, Michigan. In April, 1902, was appointed to fill a temporary vacancy in the chair of Physics at Amherst College during the year 1902 and 1903. My daughter, H. Mildred French, graduates at the University of Chicago in June, 1902. My son, Laurence E. French, is a freshman in the engineering department of the University of Michigan, 1901-1902."

HARVARD '72, EIGHTH REPORT

WILLIAM CLIFFORD FRENCH

Not heard from for many years.

 WILLIAM PRESCOTT FROST

He died at San Francisco, California, May 5, 1885. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

 RICHARD AUGUSTINE GAMBRILL

He died in New York, Jan. 4, 1890. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

GEORGE ALONZO GIBSON

Has continued as treasurer, clerk and director of the Ivers & Pond Piano Company, 114 Boylston street, and resides at 212 Commonwealth avenue. In 1899 he travelled in England, Scotland, Norway and Germany with his family, and in 1900, in Italy and France.

FRANK AUSTIN GOOCH

He has continued as professor of Chemistry in Yale University, in charge of the recently enlarged Kent Chemical Laboratory. Has published several chemical papers and has edited two volumes of "Research Papers from the Kent Chemical Laboratory, Yale University."

* ALLEN WALTON GOULD

He was born on the 21st of November, 1847, in Athens, Maine, and was the son of Daniel Howe Gould, house-builder, and Almira J. (Walton) Gould. He resided at Skowhegan, Maine, from the time he was three years old, and attended the public schools there until he was thirteen years old. From 1862 until 1866 he attended the Bloomfield Academy at Skowhegan, about eight or nine weeks every spring, working in a skate factory during the greater part of the rest of the year, with the exception of two months in the winter of 1865-66, when he taught school in Fairfield, Maine. The principal, whom he said he specially remembered, and by whom he was most benefited, was Henry J. Cushing, A.B., and now, M.D. In the fall of 1867 he decided to go to college, "he scarcely knew why, perhaps because his mother and sisters wanted him to" and he "was always somewhat inclined to books." During the winter of 1867-68 and in the spring of 1868, under the direction of Isaiah Dole, A.M., he fitted himself in Latin and Greek, teaching during most of the time two or three hours a day in the high school at Skowhegan. At the end of our freshman year he received as a detur Bryant's poems. He was a member of the "Christian Brethren," of the "Everett Athenæum," Pi Eta, U. X. and Φ. B. K. He served as treasurer and president of the Christian Brethren, was a member of the executive committee of the Everett Athenæum, and was president of the Pi Eta and of the U. X. He was elected class chaplain during his sophomore year. During the freshman and sophomore years he roomed with H. H. Hayes of '73, at No. 28 College House, and during his junior and senior years with Holbrook, at No. 28 Stoughton. He was a member of the First Christian Church at Skowhegan. He closes his biography in these words:—"My only plan in life is to do as much good as I can, and if I think I can do more good in the ministry than elsewhere I shall enter the ministry, but there or elsewhere I hope the world will always find me its friend." He was tutor in the college for two years after graduation; in 1874 he went to Leipzig, upon the Kirkland Fellowship, to study philology; in March, 1875, travelled for a short time and then went to Heidelberg to continue his studies; left Heidelberg in June, 1875, and after travelling in Germany, Switzerland and England, returned to America in August following, and in September was reappointed tutor in the college and remained there till 1881, when he became tutor of Latin at Williams College; in 1883 he accepted a professorship of Latin at Olivet College, Michigan, remaining there until 1888, when he resigned his position finding himself out of sympathy with the institution, which was "very conservatively orthodox"; he then began "to preach the gospel of evolution" and was settled three years at Manistee, Mich., a place of some twenty thousand inhabitants, on Lake Michigan. In 1891 he was called for a second time to a church in one of the suburbs of Chicago, and accepted. It was a church which Rev. Dr. Gannett had started a few years before, and was of a radical type. He remained there until the fall of 1893, when he was chosen secretary of the Western Unitarian Conference; this required all of his time and took him over the country; he gave up his church, although continuing to preach every Sunday. He has published many articles in periodicals like the Popular Science Monthly, Unitarian Review and others of less importance. In September, 1893, he published in Chicago a book called "Beginnings according to Legend and according to the Truer Story," which was reprinted in England; this was followed in 1896 by "Mother Nature's Children," which was also reprinted in England. In 1897 he published "Mother Nature's Helpers." He received the degree of A.M. from Olivet College in 1884. From 1897 to 1898 he was secretary of the Old and New

Publishing Committee and editor of the Old and New Monthly, Chicago. From 1897 to 1899 he was the western representative of the Christian Register. In May, 1899, he resigned from the secretaryship of the Western Unitarian Conference. He was elected president of the Western Unitarian Sunday-school Society in 1893, which position he held until his death. In the late summer of 1899 appeared the first number of The Child's World, a weekly magazine devoted to the little folk. In July of 1900 he was chosen to fill the chair of Latin and Greek at the Chicago Institute. A few months later he was made head of the department of languages. He died accidentally at his home in Chicago from asphyxiation by illuminating gas, on the night of March 29, 1901. For a long time previous to his death he had been afflicted with trouble in his eyes, which had interfered greatly with his work. He was married at Boston, March 23, 1876, to Minna Gordon Mackeown, daughter of Rev. Andrew Mackeown, D.D., who survives him with his children, Allen Walton Gould, born Aug. 4, 1877; Robert Gordon Gould, born Dec. 12, 1878, and Lina Margaret Gould, born Oct. 4, 1889.

The facts of Gould's life need no interpreter. An earnest seeker after the truth as the way of life, his character was unfolded in lines of beauty by a life of service. Sincerity, simplicity, and loyalty to high ideals are manifested in all his work.

In college the writer found in him a most congenial comrade, and the friendship then formed has continued unbroken. My walks and talks with Gould stand out among the golden memories of college days. In those long rambles, what themes of time and eternity did we not discuss? A few years later this companionship was renewed for a season in Heidelberg. Since then a quarter of a century has passed, with only an occasional meeting and an occasional letter, — just enough to keep in touch as to the main concerns and experiences of life.

At one time he sent me the tiny card of a baby daughter, — at another, a copy of his latest book.

I remember well a letter of years ago which told how he had passed through an experience not unlike that of Robert Elsmere, and how he had been sustained through all by the loving sympathy of his faithful wife, — the suffering passed, he now rejoiced as one coming out of narrow confines into the free air and sunshine of a large upper room. A teacher always, he next taught from the pulpit and from the Sunday-school rostrum. His work as a minister, and later as secretary of the Western Unitarian Conference, manifested the activity of a great soul who has freely received and finds its greatest delight in giving freely in return.

Looking down the vista of life's retreating years one finds a solemn interest in comparing the boy with the man. The mind of Allen Walton Gould was ever alert, clear, accurate. By dint of natural ability and persistent work, he soon effaced the marks of early disadvantages and took his place in college as one of the leading men of his class.

In after years, with widening horizon and all faculties quickened by training, his capacious mind sought after everything good to be found in books, art, in nature, in religion and in man. His great powers of absorption were exercised in a wise selection, with a view to use.

He took in to the end that he might give out, and the gracious spirit in his giving was the crowning blessing of the gift.

A notable characteristic of the man was his way of looking upon nature. In his eyes the things of science were not "phenomena," — they were intimations and unfoldings of divine thought and life. He was led by Nature up to Nature's God. With Emerson he believed that "The happiest man is he who learns from Nature the lessons of worship."

Gould's Nature books for children are designed for use in Sunday-schools. Admirably conceived and executed, they have been used with high appreciation in this country and in England. In no way does the order of a man's genius show itself more clearly than in his manner of talking to children. Gould loved to play with children, and his talks to children were an inspiration to older people. He had the rare gift to know that a perfect food for children must be rich in nourishment for children of a larger growth. "Without a parable spake he not unto them."

A study that leads to God must also lead to man. In a letter received from Gould two years ago, he says: "For the past ten years I have given much study to Anthropology, and should enjoy teaching it."

It seems altogether fitting that in finishing the work given him to do on earth the maturest powers of the mind and heart of Gould were given to the study of man, the noblest work of God.

If the supreme end of education is the perfection and exaltation of service, then does the life of our friend and classmate exemplify the true ideal.

Among those who loved their fellowmen will be inscribed the name of Allen Walton Gould.

T. F.

In the Christian Register of April 11, 1901, appeared an appreciative notice of his work, from which the following is taken:—

. . . Of the services of Mr. Gould to the cause of our Unitarian fellowship and thought in the West we must speak very highly and gratefully. As parish minister, as president of the Sunday-school Society of the West, and, perhaps most arduously of all, in the difficult place and wide duties of secretary of the Western Unitarian Conference which he held for five years, he was active, thorough, broad-minded and devoted. One thing that marked him always, and was no small grace in all he did, was his excellent scholarship. With this he united great breadth and true liberality of thought, and with this again he joined a devout and reverent spirit.

HARVARD '72, EIGHTH REPORT

He was not brought up in Unitarian fellowship, but he left his elder household of faith for our free and, as we think, larger and more rational view of religion, coming into our fold naturally by the force of a free and large mind thinking earnestly on the deep things of religion. In this change of belief, he kept undimmed that sweet directness and reverence of faith, and that charity and sympathy in thinking, the which, if one lose, he makes small progress in any alteration of creed. One thing that marked Mr. Gould, to the very grateful knowledge of the writer, was a fine sensitiveness to spiritual impressions and a pure faith in the ideal, — a faith high above reliance on numbers or powers or influences of the world. He was devout in this faith, worshipful in it and by it, and full of a working power of trust in ideal beauty and pure religion which no obscurity or apparent littleness of results could shake or make unhappy. He knew where real power lay, and worked on with implicit trust and prayerful content with God, waiting the “fulness of time.” He wrought on the basis laid down in the conclusion of the first chapter of Paul’s first letter to the Corinthians. He was a man who practised by instinct, by thought, and by faith, the truth and life touched in Mr. Dole’s fine saying, “Ideality is the science of values.”

SAMUEL ELIOT GUILD

No change; he resides at 161 Beacon street, Boston.

FRANK ROCKWOOD HALL

“I have not much to add to my history as printed in last report; since then, however, I have become a member of the Twentieth Century Club of Boston and am one of the lecturers of the New England Educational League, of which I am also a member.” He has continued to reside in Boston, where he is engaged in the practice of law.

ROBERT SPRAGUE HALL

“During the four years from 1898 to 1902 no great change has taken place in my business or social life. I have been engaged in efforts to promote various enterprises, and have done some legal work in this connection, but have not been lucky enough to reap any rich harvest in my undertakings. I have had one rather severe illness, but recovery is likely to be complete. My residence remains the same, 57 High street, Charlestown.”

ASA GUSTAVUS HAPGOOD

He is in the wholesale paper business, under the firm name of A. G. Hapgood & Co., Temple Court, New York.

FRANK HASBROUCK

He continued as Postmaster at Poughkeepsie until March 31, 1899, having filled the position for four years, and is now engaged in the practice of law at 56 Market street. His son Ross was graduated in 1899 at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and is now a civil engineer in the employment of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. His son Alfred left college and volunteered as a private in the beginning of the Spanish War; he served three years, two in the Philippines, came out as first lieutenant of volunteers, received an appointment in the regular army and is now second lieutenant, Artillery Corps, U. S. A. His daughter Olga is a student at Vassar College, class of 1906.

EDWIN NEWELL HILL

He has continued to reside at Boston, and is engaged in the practice of law at 811 Tremont Building.

HENRY EVELETH HILL

He writes: "There is really nothing to add to the chapter of my life and existence, except that the story is still being continued in the same old lines, and in fact there has been no material change since the last report. The little circumstances which have arisen have only tended to relieve the monotony of professional life, but nothing worth noting as a matter of history, or as a thing worthy to call to the attention of one's classmates." He is engaged in the practice of law in Worcester.

LEANDER HOLBROOK

"There is nothing to add."

ARTHUR HOLLAND

"In July, 1898, I went to London as agent of some of the component parts of the United States Steel Corporation, and remained there until the latter part of 1901, and shortly after my return to this country I came to San Francisco, where I am president of the United Railroads of San Francisco. Best regards to all. I wish I could be with you on the anniversary of the day which seems anything but thirty years ago."

LUCIUS LEE HUBBARD

"Early in 1890 I resigned the office of State Geologist of Michigan, to take effect April 1st of the same year. About the same time I was appointed general manager of the Copper Range Company and later in the same year of the Champion Copper Co. (an offshoot of the former). I opened the Baltic Lode, on land of the Copper Range, and St. Mary's Canal Mineral Land Co. in May, 1899 (see "Report of Copper Range Co. for 1900" and "A Plea for Accurate Maps"). Since that date have been developing the Champion Mine and preparing for production on a large scale. In 1899 I edited Vol. 6, Geological Survey of Michigan, containing results of my geological work in Part II., entitled "Keweenaw Point, with Particular Reference to the Felsites and their Associated Rocks." I have published "A Plea for Accurate Maps" and "Proceedings of the Lake Superior Mining Institute, 1901." I believe the above covers the necessary statistics. Although most of my time is devoted to mining work I still manage to tramp around through the woods a little trying to discover some new geological facts. I have charge of an exploration southwest of our property some four or five miles, and if we should succeed in finding a good copper lode several more mines may start up in the next few years and a further impetus be given to exploration still further south."

 PETER HULME

Our classmate, Peter Hulme, was born in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in 1850. His father, Peter Hulme, who died when his son was six months old, was the son of Thomas and Alice Hulme, and was born in 1810 at Great Lever, Lancashire, England. His mother, Mary Crompton Hulme, was the only daughter of Dr. Robert Eveleigh and Charlotte (Balshaw) Taylor, both of Bolton, Lee-moors, Lancashire, England. He was educated at his home in Poughkeepsie until thirteen years of age, and then in private schools, being finally prepared for college by W. A. Pomeroy, A. B., of Dartmouth. In college he was a deturman, a member of the Everett Athenæum, treasurer of the Signet, and secretary of St. Paul's (Episcopal) Society. He chummed with our classmate, Frank Hasbrouck. On leaving college he studied law in the office of his uncle, John C. Bullitt, a noted lawyer of Philadelphia, and afterwards at the Columbia Law School, where he received the degree of LL.B., in 1874. From then until the time of his death he practised his profession in Poughkeepsie. He was elected to the New York State Legislature in 1878, was chamberlain of the city of Poughkeepsie in 1889 and 1890, and filled various other municipal offices. He was a director of the City Bank of Poughkeepsie, and a member of the University Club of New York. He was married in 1876 to Sarah Louise Hasbrouck, a sister of our classmate, Frank Hasbrouck. He died April 23, 1901, after an illness of two years, which he fought to the last with good courage.

This record of our classmate's life shows that he was a useful citizen and trusted by the community, and that he well executed the trusts conferred upon him. We recall his agreeable personality. He was alert in action, with a keen eye, quick in speech, and impetuous in his loyalty to his friends and his convictions. He was a thoroughly lovable fellow and of a nature that will make him greatly missed by his friends and classmates.

J. H. Y.

EDWARD WEBSTER HUTCHINS

He has remained in Boston, Mass., engaged in the practice of law in the firm of Hutchins and Wheeler, with the exception of eight months in 1898-9 when he travelled round the world with his wife and daughter, visiting Japan, China, Ceylon and Egypt.

MARCELLO HUTCHINSON

"On April 30, 1899, I resigned my work at Foxboro', Mass., coming immediately to this hospital, where I have remained continuously. There are no additions to my family and happily the number of it remains unbroken. I am now a member of the Vermont State Medical Society and am registered as a practitioner in both Massachusetts and Vermont." He is superintendent of the Vermont State Hospital for the Insane, Waterbury, Vt.

MERTON SPENCER KEITH

He has remained in Cambridge, engaged in preparing students for college. One of his pupils was Miss Helen Keller, the blind and deaf mute, who was under his instruction a year and a half in preparation for Radcliffe, and studied with him for another year on branches belonging to the freshman year of Radcliffe. He published in the Helen Keller souvenir, two years ago, a somewhat extended account of her course of study under him. His daughter, Ethel L. Keith, graduated from Radcliffe in 1900.

* WILLIAM WALLACE KELMAN

He died at Rye, N. Y., Jan. 16, 1877. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

CAMILLUS GEORGE KIDDER

He has continued as a partner in the law firm of Ivins, Kidder & Melcher, at 27 William street, New York. He resides at Orange, N. J., and is now one of the excise commissioners of that city. He visited Cuba in January last. His eldest son, Jerome Faber, is in the class of 1905, Harvard.

CHARLES RICHARD LAWRENCE

He has continued as president of the Bunker Hill National Bank of Charlestown, and is a trustee and a member of the Board of Investment of the Warren Institution for Savings of Charlestown. Is vice-president of the Charlestown Gas and Electric Company. He resides in Brookline.

LEWIS CASS LEDYARD

He has continued the practice of law in New York. He has been re-elected commodore of the New York Yacht Club, and in addition to the other offices held by him, enumerated in the last report, he is a director in the Maine Central Railroad, in the Newport Trust Company and in the United States Trust Company of New York. He travelled in Europe in 1901. His son, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Jr., graduated in the class of 1900, Harvard, and is now in the law school.

ALBERT LAMB LINCOLN, JR.

He has remained in Boston, engaged in the practice of law. In September, 1900, he took his family abroad for seven months, visiting the Exposition in Paris, and travelling in England, France, Switzerland, Germany and Italy. He spent seven weeks of the winter in Egypt, going up the Nile as far as Assouan. He had the pleasure of meeting Tucker in Cairo and Cabot in London. In December, 1901, he was chosen a park commissioner of the town of Brookline, to fill a vacancy, by the joint boards of selectmen and park commissioners, and was subsequently elected by the town for three years. He has joined The Bostonian Society and the Brookline Historical Society.

ARTHUR LORD

He resigned his position as Civil Service Commissioner in April, 1899, and has continued the practice of law in Boston.

WILLIAM BRICEN LORD

He has remained in Washington, D. C., engaged in the practice of law, except during a five months' trip abroad in 1900, starting April 30 and returning September 30, his itinerary including Paris, England, Scotland, the north of Ireland, Holland, Belgium, Germany and Switzerland, and the Rhine country from Schaffhausen to Rotterdam. He made the entire journey alone, and writes that it was "a great trip to vitalize reading, to quicken the sympathies and give fresh interest to life."

HARVARD '72, EIGHTH REPORT

WILLIAM CALEB LORING

He continued in the firm of Ropes, Gray and Loring until September, 1899, when he was appointed an associate Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court in Massachusetts. He received the degree of LL.D., Harvard, June 26, 1901; "a judge worthy to uphold the high repute of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts." He travelled abroad in the summer of 1898 and 1901.

ERNEST PARKER MILLER

"Nothing of importance to add." He has remained in Fitchburg, engaged in the practice of medicine.

ARTHUR MILLS

He has continued as vice-president and general manager of the Merchants Despatch Transportation Company at 291 Broadway, New York. His daughter Elsie was married in June, 1901, to Philip Yardley DeNormandie, Harvard, '91. He spent a few weeks in Europe in the fall of 1900. He is a member of the University and Harvard clubs of New York, of the Country Club, Brookline, and the Genesee Valley Club, Rochester, N. Y. He has withdrawn from the Transportation Club. His residence is still in Brookline, Mass.

RUSSELL WORTLEY MONTAGUE

He has continued to reside at White Sulphur Springs, Virginia. He writes: "A few years ago I made some investments in patents, which later took more time than I

* CHARLES McILVAINE NICHOLSON

He died Oct. 16, 1885, at Woods Holl, Mass. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

JOSEPH WISWELL PALMER

He has remained in Fitchburg, engaged in the practice of dentistry.

LOUIS HENRY PARKHURST

He has continued as a member of the firm of Webster F. Putnam & Co., Bankers and Brokers, Commonwealth Building, 20 Water street, Boston. He writes:—"I am a member of the Colonial Club of Dorchester, near where I live, and since 1898 I have pursued my Masonic investigations to the extent of thirty-two degrees, as high as I ever expect to get in that fraternity; I also acknowledge the dignity attached to a Past Master. I am still engaged in the banking business as a partner in W. F. Putnam & Co. I cannot complain of the way the world has used me. My son graduated from the old college in '98, with a "Magna Cum" and two "honorable mentions," and is now successfully engaged in the banking business, though not with me. My present residence is 9 Crawford street, Roxbury."

CHARLES FITZ POUSLAND

He has continued in the Revere Sugar Refinery at East Cambridge, Massachusetts. His daughter, Caroline Loring, graduated at Radcliffe in 1900, and is now engaged in teaching history, etc., at Rye Seminary, N. Y., and his daughter Elizabeth Cutting is in the junior class at Radcliffe. His son, Charles Felton, takes his preliminaries at Harvard next year.

* AFFRED RAND

He died at Charlestown, Massachusetts, May 9, 1877. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

JOSEPH RAWSON

He still continues in the banking business as vice-president of the First National Bank (Cincinnati).

* JAMES PAGE RICHARDSON

He died at Portland, Maine, Sept. 8, 1872. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

JOHN FRANKLIN RICHARDSON

He continues to reside at Redlands, California. He has retired from active business.

LAURENCE DANA RUMSEY

"Since my last report I have no family changes to make. I have been president of and built the Lewiston & Youngstown Frontier Railway and Trolley Line, from Lewiston, N. Y., to Youngstown, N. Y., and organized the Buffalo Polo Club, and also the Buffalo Country Club, and have been president of each. I am vice-president of the Bank of Buffalo and am at present engaged in general affairs. My son, Charles Carey Rumsey, graduates at Harvard this year (1902)."

CHARLES HOWLAND RUSSELL

He has continued as a member of the firm of Stetson, Jennings and Russell, 15 Broad street, New York. Was vice-president of the Harvard Club from 1898 to 1900. He has continued to reside in New York, with the exception of a few months in 1899, when he travelled abroad with his family.

HARVARD '72, EIGHTH REPORT

* EDWARD BALDWIN RUSSELL

He was born Sept. 3, 1849, in Dorchester, Mass., and died suddenly at Biarritz, France, June 22, 1900. He was the son of Edward Russell of "The Mercantile Agency," Boston, and of Mary Warren Field. He attended the public schools and was fitted for college at the Boston Latin School, of which Francis Gardner was then head master. From May, 1866, to September, 1867, he travelled in Europe, and this perhaps was the beginning of his great love of travel. He attended faithfully to his duties in college and his only absence in term time was for a month in the junior year, when he went south for his health. He was a member of the "Institute" and of the "Hasty Pudding Club." Immediately after graduation he spent about two years abroad in study and travel. On his return he went into business with his father in the "Mercantile Agency" in Boston, and became a partner in the firm of Edward Russell & Co. All through his life he kept up his travels, both in this country and Europe, and in fact around the world, and he contributed several letters descriptive of his travels to the Boston Evening Transcript. It was on his return from his last journey around the world with his wife that he died. He succeeded Severance as one of our class committee and always took a great interest in our re-unions. In the last letter which the Secretary received from him, written May 8, 1900, he writes: "Again I must fail you this commencement, if there is to be the usual '72 feast. . . . I shall be glad to be cordially remembered to the boys of '72 at the class re-union." He was a member of the St. Botolph and of the Eastern Yacht Club, and of the University Club, New York.

HARVARD '72, EIGHTH REPORT

June 28, 1895, he was married to Louisa Parrott, daughter of William Pearce and Sophia Marion (Read) Parrott, at Ashmont, Boston.

At the Commencement meeting, June 24, 1900, the class adopted the following resolutions in his memory:—
“Resolved, that the class have heard with the deepest sorrow of the sudden death of their classmate, Edward Baldwin Russell, at Biarritz, France, on June 22. No one took a deeper interest in everything pertaining to the class, and to him we owe an added pleasure in the many of our annual re-unions for which he provided. He seemed to have a personal regard for all his classmates, and in his travels across our country or abroad he would be sure to plan his route so as to see as many of them as possible. No matter at what distance, he always kept in touch with us. Such a feeling on his part was reciprocated by his classmates, who found in him a firm, loving and lovable friend, to whom it was always a pleasure to be of service to them. We shall greatly miss him as a classmate and as a member of our class committee, and while deploring our own loss would extend to his widow our heartfelt sympathy.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to Mrs. Russell.

He was buried from the chapel at Mt. Auburn Cemetery, July 24, and the Secretary, Young, Almy, and others of the class, were present.

* ROBERT SHAW RUSSELL

He died in Dexter, Maine, Sept. 21, 1887. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

FRANK HALLER SAWYER

He has continued to occupy the position of private secretary to the Honorable George C. Perkins, U. S. Senator from California. He was clerk of the Senate

HARVARD '72, EIGHTH REPORT

Committee on Fisheries, and is now clerk of the Committee on Civil Service and Retrenchment.

* PIERRE CLARKE SEVERANCE

He died April 20, 1890. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

EDWARD STEVENS SHELDON

He has continued as professor of Romance Philology in the University. During the year 1901 he was president of the Modern Language Association of America and delivered an address at their meeting in Cambridge last December. This address, entitled "Practical Philology," is printed in the Publications of the Modern Language Association of America, vol. 17 (new series, vol. 10), pages 91-104, Baltimore, 1902. He has also written one or two book reviews in Modern Language Notes and The Nation, New York. His residence is at 11 Francis avenue, Cambridge.

EDWARD CHILD SHERBURNE

He writes as follows: "Since your last report, four years ago, I have continued in the glass business, with a few side issues. To-day I am a director in the Boston Plate and Window Glass Co., president of the American Plate Glass Association of the United States, treasurer of the Shooting and Fishing Publishing Co. of New York city, trustee of the estate of Joseph G. Russell, and belong to the following social clubs:—The University Club of Boston, the Exchange Club of Boston, the Oakley Country Club of Watertown, and the Crow Point Golf Club of Hingham, of which I am president. A banquet tendered me by the American Plate Glass Association on May 21, 1901, at the Iroquois Hotel, Buffalo, New York, will always be remembered by me. About forty gentlemen from all parts of the United States, east of the Rockies, sat at the table, giving me evidence of a much larger circle of friends than I imagined

HARVARD '72, EIGHTH REPORT

I possessed. A beautiful loving cup was presented me as a souvenir. Another occasion which afforded me much pleasure was when the class elected me as a member of the Class Committee. To be remembered by the class so many years after graduation was certainly a surprise. In 1899 I moved to Brookline, where I now reside. Have spent most of my summers at Hingham, Mass. My son is in the Lawrence Scientific School."

FRANK STAPLES SHERBURNE

He has continued as treasurer of the Boston Plate and Window Glass Company. His son Kenneth graduated from Harvard in 1900 and is now taking an extra course of engineering. Two years ago, in the summer of 1899, he made a journey through the great lakes by steamer from Buffalo, a trip which he says he found most entertaining and instructive and which he advises everyone having an opportunity to take.

* HENRY ST. JOHN SMITH

He died at Cape Elizabeth, near Portland, Maine, Oct. 3, 1896. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

* PHILIP SIDNEY STONE

He died at Cambridge, June 25, 1890. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

RALPH STONE

He writes as follows:—"My life has been very uneventful during the past four years and I scarcely stir out of my adopted home. In the spring of 1899 I was fortunate enough to be appointed librarian of the law library, eighth judicial district, of the State of New York, located at Buffalo. This is one of a number of such libraries maintained by the State, in conjunction with the counties in which they are placed. The position is for life, or so long as one stands well with the trustees. The duties are not arduous or especially confining and for one who loves letters and a quiet life, on the whole, very satisfactory. My hair is not so thick as it was, but there is still plenty of it. It is just beginning to show a trace of gray. I have never used glasses. I weigh exactly the same as when in college and my clothes are made on the same measure as thirty years ago. I only claim one exemption on the ground of age—for the past few years I have absolutely declined to assist in handling my wife's trunks."

HARVARD '72, EIGHTH REPORT

HERMAN FOSTER STRAW

He has continued in charge of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Co., Manchester, New Hampshire. His second son, Harry Ellis Straw, is in the class of 1905, Harvard.

* JEREMIAH JOSEPH SULLIVAN

From the record in the class book, written by him, the following facts appear. His parents came from Ireland about 1840, and he was born in Watertown, Mass., Sept. 16, 1850, and prepared for college in the public schools of that town. He complains that while in college he was much troubled with palpitation of the heart from nervousness, so as to be incapacitated for study several days at a time; but his work was honest and faithful and entitled him to receive two scholarships while in college, and a detur at the end of the freshman year. He was a member of the Everett Athenæum in our sophomore year, and of the Harvard Cricket Club during the whole course. Of the latter club he was captain in our senior year. He left college with the intention of studying law, and entered the law school in the fall of '72. After remaining a year at the school he entered the office of the Hon. George S. Hale of Boston and was admitted to the bar in 1874. He practised his profession in Watertown, where he resided, and in Boston, until his death. He held various public offices and was a member of the school board of Watertown from March, 1878, to March, 1881, when he declined a re-nomination; was selectman from March, 1880, to April, 1884, when he resigned. He was chairman of the board of health in 1886. He died of pneumonia, after a short illness, at Watertown, Jan. 11, 1899. At our Commencement meeting, June 28, 1899, the following minute was adopted by the class, to be entered upon our records: "The class assembled at their Commencement meeting, June 28, 1899, have learned with sorrow of the death of their classmate, Jeremiah Joseph Sullivan, who died Jan. 11 last, and desire to express on their records their deep appreciation of his character and attainments. Industrious, patient and persevering under difficulties while in college, he carried the same good qualities into his profession of the law and won a well-merited success. Deservedly appreciated by his fellow-citizens of Watertown, he was elected to many municipal offices and filled them with honor to his town and to himself, and with such satisfaction to his constituents that it was only his own inclination which terminated his services. His course has reflected credit on his class, and his memory will always be a pleasant one to us all."

HARVARD '72, EIGHTH REPORT

CHARLES SOLON THORNTON

No reply.

CHARLES HENRY TITUS

He has continued in the real estate business in Providence, R. I.

FLOYD WILLIAMS TOMKINS

He writes as follows: "I can hardly realize that the time has come for another report. The substance of the extract you enclose is correct, but it may be supplemented by the following: — In March, 1899, I became Rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Philadelphia, where, with five assistants, I am trying to do what I can to make this old city a better place. In 1901 I published two books, "Following Christ" and "My Best Friend." In the summer of 1900 I was given the degree of S. T. D. by the University of Pennsylvania. I am chaplain of the First Regiment, and am trying to serve on innumerable committees and succeed in keeping myself pretty busy. I have preached at Harvard twice and am one of the "preachers" for the year 1902-3. There is no change in my family life, except that my eldest daughter is to graduate this summer from Wellesley College."

HARVARD '72, EIGHTH REPORT

CHARLEMAGNE TOWER

No reply. He was appointed Ambassador to Russia in January, 1899, and has continued to fill that position. He made a short visit to this country in May last, but the Secretary unfortunately did not succeed in getting a communication from him while here, and he has now returned to Russia.

* GEORGE HOMER TOWER

He died at Braintree, April 15, 1878. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

EUGENE TREADWELL

No change. He is engaged in the practice of law, at 22 William street, New York.

ALANSON TUCKER

He is not in active business and spends much of his time in foreign travel. He was married in Cambridge, Nov. 25, 1899, to Katherine Sawin Davis, daughter of William H. and Elizabeth H. (Bassett) Davis. He writes "I still keep up my love for travel, and every year spend six or seven months away. Am sorry to say I shall not be here for the thirtieth anniversary, as I sail June 16 for a trip to Sweden and Norway. I expect to be in Cairo next winter, where I hope to meet you again."

JOHN FREEMAN TUFTS

He writes as follows:—"The following item may be added to my sketch, as enclosed. A member of the National Geographical Society of Washington, D. C., United States. Received degree of D.C.L. from Acadia College in June, 1900. I have written three lectures during the past four years. On Aug. 9, 1900, my wife died. My eldest daughter, Hilda Alford, is in Wellesley College, class of 1905. My second son, Robbie S., is in Acadia College, class of 1905. My youngest daughter, Enid Yolande, is at present studying in Acadia Ladies Seminary, Wolfville, N. S., fitting for Wellesley College, or some other school in the United States. No change in my position in Acadia College." He travelled in England in the summer of 1901.

SIDNEY FREDERIC TYLER

He is president of the 4th Street National Bank, Philadelphia, and in addition to the various companies of which he is reported as director in his last report, he became a director in 1900 of the Commercial Trust Co. of Philadelphia. His son is in the freshman class at Harvard, and his daughter was married a few months ago to Robert L. Montgomery of Philadelphia.

EDWARD EMERSON WATERS

Not heard from.

THOMAS FRANKLIN WATERS

Reports no change. He has continued as pastor of the South (Congregational) Church, Ipswich, Mass.

He writes "I do not know whether I can be with you on our thirtieth anniversary or not, but I am going to try to. If it is my history which is bothering you, forget it—I have none."

MOSES PERKINS WHITE

He has continued to reside in Cambridge, and is engaged in the practice of law in Boston, at 1024 Tremont Building. His daughter Margaret is in Radcliffe, class of 1903, but is at present taking the studies of her junior year at Bryn Mawr.

* FRANCIS EUGENE WHITNEY

He died at Torquay, England, Nov. 24, 1873. See Secretary's Report, No. 7.

CHARLES AMORY WILLIAMS

He has continued the practice of law at 18 Post Office square, Boston. He is treasurer of the Central Wharf and Wet Dock Corporation. Was abroad with his family in the spring and summer of 1901, travelling in England and on the continent.

LOUIS AUGUSTUS WYMAN

“My report made in 1898 left me recovering from a severe injury, and to-day I am well, although at times conscious that something “happened.” In 1898 I became manager of the Wright & Potter Printing Company, in addition to my position as treasurer. This takes all my time, giving a satisfactory business and pleasant relations with many Harvard men, young and old. I continued as chairman of the Lynn school committee until December, 1900, refusing another election. My eldest son graduated from Harvard in 1900, is now a proctor, and will graduate from the Harvard Law School in June, already having been admitted to the bar. My daughter is in the junior class at Smith College, and two younger sons are preparing for college.”

JAMES HOLDEN YOUNG

He is still engaged in the practice of law with E. W. Hutchins in the Sears building, Boston. He writes “No change save in weight, which is visibly increasing. Am beginning to envy my fortunate classmates who have families and are happily settled. I feel a growing interest in a nephew and nieces.”

* SAMUEL ERIE SINCLAIR

He was born Aug. 14, 1849, in New York city, his parents being Samuel and Charlotte Ann (Perry) Sinclair. His father was the publisher of the New York Tribune. He was fitted for college by F. Hoffmann. He joined the class during our sophomore year and left at the end of the junior year. For some time he was on the New York Tribune. In 1896 he was connected with the Boston Daily Globe as assistant night editor; afterwards with the Boston Traveler, and continued doing newspaper work until shortly before his death. He died June 29, 1900, of pulmonary phthisis, after a sickness of ten weeks, at the Cullis Consumptives' Home, Boston. He last resided at 77 Waltham street, Boston. He left a widow and two children.

EDWARD MONTAGUE SWITZER

He writes as follows:—"I regret that I have not been able to keep more in touch with the class, but living in the west, where I have met but rarely any of its members, I have grown, contrary to my wishes, sadly ignorant of its history. Through a chance meeting with Charlie Russell this spring in Bermuda, I got much interesting information about old friends, and I am indebted to him for writing to you of me, for I was under the impression, and should be so still, if he had not cleared the matter up, that only those of the class who had taken their degrees were entitled to recognition on the records. Since leaving Cambridge my time has been passed almost continuously in industrial and commercial pursuits, the first ten years in flour milling at Belleville, this State (Illinois), most of the time afterwards in the grain commission and shipping business in St. Louis and Chicago. At present I am not in active business. I was married in St. Louis, Oct. 30, 1877, to Martha Stevens Eads, daughter of Martha Dillon and James B. Eads of St. Louis. My wife died in Chicago, Jan. 2, 1901. Of the union there were born three sons and one daughter, all living. Edward Montague, Jr., born in St. Louis, Dec. 4, 1878, and graduated from Harvard with the class of 1901; Martha, born in St. Louis, Aug. 22, 1880; James Eads, born in St. Louis, June 19, 1882, and now a member of the class of 1903 at Harvard, and John Ubsdell, born in Chicago, July 28, 1887. I have travelled some in Europe, Mexico, Central America and Cuba. My address is 'The Rookery,' Chicago."

HARVARD '72, EIGHTH REPORT

WALTER ELIOT THWING

He has continued to reside in Boston, and is in business in the office of E. B. Townsend, at 27 Kilby street. For the past twenty years he has been engaged in writing the history of the Livermore family, which he hopes to publish early in October next. He is a member of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, of the John Eliot Club of Roxbury, and of the Massachusetts Audubon Society, of which he is local secretary for Roxbury.

CLASS MEETINGS

The following meetings of the Class have been held since the last report : —

June 28, 1898. Annual dinner at the University Club. Present, Almy, W. Burgess, Babbitt, F. R. Hall, R. S. Hall, Keith, Lawrence, Lincoln, A. Lord, Miller, Parkhurst, E. C. Sherburne, F. S. Sherburne, Tomkins, White, Williams, J. M. Allen, R. F. Fisk, Parks. E. C. Sherburne presided, but the dinner was entirely informal. The seventh class report was presented by the Secretary, and a vote of thanks was passed to Sherburne for the fine dinner which he had provided.

June 29, 1898. Commencement meeting at Thayer 1. The Secretary's reports were formally accepted.

June 27, 1899. Annual dinner at the University Club. Present, W. Burgess, Baker, T. French, F. R. Hall, R. S. Hall, Keith, Kidder, Lincoln, A. Lord, Parkhurst, E. C. Sherburne, F. S. Sherburne, J. M. Allen, Thwing. Kidder presided, and letters were read from Beaman, Cabot, Hubbard, Callender, Chase and Tufts. The Secretary read his reports for the year, which were accepted. Brief remarks were made by French, Sheldon and Lord, after which the usual singing was indulged in to a late hour.

June 28, 1899. Commencement meeting at Thayer 1. The death of Sullivan was reported and a sketch of his life was read. A short memorial was adopted by the Class and ordered to be entered in the class records.

June 26, 1900. Annual dinner at the University Club. Present, Almy, Beaman, F. R. Hall, R. S. Hall, Hutchins, Kidder, Lincoln, Lord, Loring, Parkhurst, Sheldon, E. C. Sherburne, F. S. Sherburne, White, Wyman, Young, J. M. Allen, Parks. Kidder presided and the Secretary presented his reports for the past year, which were accepted. Brother Loring, whose appointment to the Supreme Court had been reported, received a great ovation. Hutchins gave us an account of his experience in Japan and news of Tilden. Sheldon told us of the purchase of the Lowell library of Romance Literature and the need of a book-mark in connection therewith. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Sherburne, and after further speaking and singing the Class broke up at 11.40.

June 27, 1900. Commencement meeting at Thayer 3, Kidder, chairman. The Secretary reported the death of Edward Baldwin Russell, at Biarritz, France, June 22. A brief sketch of his life was read and resolutions passed in his memory, a copy of which was sent to his widow by the Secretary. The matter of a book-mark for the Lowell library was then taken up, and it was voted that the Secretary be authorized to pay to Sheldon a sufficient sum to furnish the plate needed therefor. (The sum needed was $75, and was subsequently paid; see report of Class fund.)¹ E. C. Sherburne was unanimously elected to fill the vacancy in the Class committee caused by the death of Russell.

June 25, 1901. Annual dinner at the University Club. Present, Almy, Baker, Cabot, Callender, Felton, Gibson, R. S. Hall, F. R. Hall, Hutchins, Keith, Lawrence, Lincoln, Lord, Parkhurst, Russell, E. C. Sherburne, F. S. Sherburne, Sheldon, Tufts, Wyman, Young, J. M. Allen. The Secretary read his reports for the year, which were accepted. The dinner committee for our thirtieth anniversary was appointed, consisting of E. C. Sherburne, Hutchins and the Secretary. Informal remarks were made by C. H. Russell and by Felton, who referred to the fact that this was only the second time that he had been present at a Class meeting since graduation. Tufts gave an interesting account of the way in which he happened to come to Harvard, and the difficulties which he had to overcome. He was the first graduate of a Canada college to take the academic course at Harvard.

June 26, 1901. Commencement meeting at Thayer 3, Young in the chair. The deaths were reported of Charles Roberts Brickett, Allen Walton Gould, Peter Hulme and Samuel Eric Sinclair.

Voted, that the thanks of the President and Fellows be sent to the Class of 1872, for an engraved book-plate for the books of the Lowell Memorial Library.

A true copy of record. Attest:

ALLEN DANFORTH,
Comptroller.
